

Asiago Launch — Social Batch (live campaign, platform-portable)

Campaign: Asiago DOP launch — whole wheels + vacuum-packed 1/4 wheels, in stock stateside. Stage-1 goal: build connection + dialogue with decision-makers (cheesemongers & specialty grocers). Posts open the door; the DM/email does the selling. Pricing: by inquiry only — no prices in any post. Freight quotes pending Stefano (national direct-to-shop shipping). Primary CTA: DM us, or email Sales@montitrentini-usa.com. Handle: @montitrentini. Voice: warm, rooted, proud, heartfelt. Show the mountain, the hands, the wheels — let origin carry it. Avoid: corporate jargon, cold/impersonal language, overhyped claims, generic “Made in Italy” (always the mountain specificity), stacking specs in a headline. Distribution: platform-portable (no HubSpot Marketing Hub on the current plan). Post natively or paste into a scheduler later — captions are ready either way.

This batch extends the 7-post IG/FB week in Asiago_Social_Starter.md and adds X, a blog post, TikTok scripts, a 2-week calendar, and an image map.

The starter’s 7 posts are the IG/FB backbone; the new pieces below round out the launch across every channel you named.

IG backbone = the 7-post week in Asiago_Social_Starter.md (origin → heritage → sustainability → the ladder → the cut → the taste → the invitation). Add these three to deepen the launch:

IG-A — Reel (15–20s) • “From mountain to counter”

Visual: quick cuts — pasture (mucche-alpeggio) → hands working a wheel (lavorazione-formaggio) → a finished wheel → a wedge handed across a counter. On-screen text beats: “800 metres.” → “Milk within 90 km.” → “Casari dal 1925.” → “Now on U.S. counters.”

Caption: The whole journey, in fifteen seconds. Asiago DOP made at altitude in the Trentino mountains — milk to wheel, all under one roof. Now landing on U.S. counters. Cheesemongers: DM us. Hashtags: #MontiTrentini #AsiagoDOP #AlpineCheese #Trentino #ProductOfTheMountains #CheesemongerLife Alt: Alpine pasture, cheesemaker’s hands, and a finished Asiago wheel.

IG-B — Meet the maker (carousel, 2–3 slides)

Visual: storica-trasporto-latte (then) + lavorazione-formaggio (now) + casa-finco-mark. Caption: Behind every wheel: a family. Casa Finco has made cheese in these mountains since 1925 — four generations working milk from their own neighborhood. Casari dal 1925. We’d love to put that story in your case. Hashtags: #CasaFinco #Since1925 #HeritageCheese #MontiTrentini #SpecialtyCheese Alt: Historic milk transport beside a modern cheesemaker and the Casa Finco mark.

IG-C — Story set (3 frames, tap-through)

1. Poll sticker: “Asiago — Fresco, Stagionato, or Vecchio?” over asiago-dop-famiglia.
 2. “Whole wheels for the counter. 1/4 wheels, vacuum-packed, for an easy set.”
 3. “Bring it to your shop → DM or Sales@montitrentini-usa.com” over montitrentini-mainbanner.

Light blog post (~500 words)

Title: Product of the Mountains: Why Asiago Tastes of Where It’s Made Slug: product-of-the-mountains-asiago Meta description: Authentic Italian Alpine Asiago DOP from Monti Trentini — made at altitude in the Trentino mountains, milk to wheel, by a family creamery since 1925.

A hundred-year story doesn’t happen by chance.

In the Trentino mountains, where cows graze in the shade of the Dolomites, the milk is simply different — and so is the cheese. The herbs of the alpine pasture, the cool air, the slow seasons: they all end up in the wheel. This is what we mean when we call Monti Trentini Product of the Mountains. It isn’t a slogan. The mountain origin is the product.

Our Asiago DOP is made at 800 metres above sea level, in a certified dairy, from milk sourced within 90 kilometres of our home in Grigno. That short distance matters. Milk that travels less arrives fresher, and milk from one’s own neighborhood carries the character of one specific place — not the anonymous average of “Made in Italy.”

We also do something increasingly rare: everything happens under one roof. Milk processing, cheesemaking, aging, and packaging all take place in our own plants. Nothing is outsourced; nothing is anonymous. Every wheel is handled start to finish by the people who make it — the way Casa Finco has worked since 1925, four generations of cheesemakers later.

For a cheese counter, that translates into two simple things: a story your customers respond to, and consistency you can build a set around. Our Asiago comes in whole wheels for the cut-to-order case and vacuum-packed quarter wheels for easy handling and a clean, ready-to-merchandise set. Both are in stock stateside — no import wait.

And there's range to work with. Fresco (30–40 days) is mild, milky, and supple — the gateway. Stagionato (around five months) turns nutty and firm, the everyday wheel. Vecchio (nine months) goes deep and savory, with those little crystalline bites that make a tasting board memorable. One heritage cheese, three expressions for three kinds of shopper.

Making cheese this way is also how we look after the place it comes from. A solar plant generates roughly 650,000 kWh a year — about 80% of our electricity — and avoids close to 1,000 tons of CO₂ annually. Protecting the alpine landscape protects the hundreds of mountain farms within it. When the cheese is made right, the whole mountain benefits.

Happiness has plenty of shapes, and we'd like to put a few of them on your counter.

If you run a cheese shop or specialty grocery and want to bring authentic Italian Alpine Asiago to your case, we'd love to talk. Reach us at Sales@montitrentini-usa.com — and follow along at @montitrentini.

Monti Trentini — Casa Finco, casari dal 1925. High level of happiness.
